FIRE SAFETY FEAR AS DISPUTE ENDS

Union agrees compromise deal but warns cuts to frontline services could still put lives at risk

THE year-long dispute that brought Essex firefighters to the brink of strike action is over after union representatives agreed a compromise deal on Monday.

The decision by union members to accept the terms of the deal thrashed out by fire service chiefs and the Fire Brigades Union brings to an end eight months of industrial action.

While hailing the agreement as a victory for common sense in the current economic climate, the union warned it will result in the loss of 44 "wholetime" firefighters from frontline stations.

And Keith Flynn, secretary of the Essex FBU, said: "Our members continue to harbour serious professional concerns about these cuts and the affects they may have on both firefighter and public safety."

He added: "At Harlow we have two normal fire engines, a rescue team and an aerial ladder platform. Whereas now the specialist machines have two dedicated crews, under the deal these will have to share a crew which means only one can be used at a time.

"The professional opinion of the firefighters in Harlow was that they need to be dedicated crews. That was what the industrial action was about.

"They maintain that it is only a matter of time before both machines will need to be used and they are not going to be able to."

The nearest alternative aerial ladder platform, which is used when fighting fires in high-rise buildings, is at Chelmsford while the nearest rescue team is based in Grays.

The compromise arrangement guarantees no compulsory redundancies and secures funding to maintain current numbers of retained firefighters and their emergency response standards.

"Our members understand the financial challenges facing the fire authority but we believe that further cuts to frontline 999 services would inevitably put

Parties clash over consultations on council reform

A ROW has broken out over public consultations on plans to reform the structure of Harlow Council.

Labour councillors have accused the Conservatives of trying to sway the result in favour of a change to an executive set up.

Labour group leader Mark Wilkinson claimed the official consultation document gave the impression that only two options were on the table.

"It clearly states options for a cabinet system or for a mayor but you have to look further to find the option of keeping the system we have now," he said.

"We are not saying what system we should have but we would like for it to be a transparent consultation. The Tories are trying to make it look like there are only two options."

The council currently uses a traditional committee system in which decisions are made either at full council or by smaller, cross-party groups with specialised responsibilities.

The consultation document criticises this system for slowing down the decision-making process and making it less transparent.

"Very few local authorities now operate this system and there is a danger that retaining the traditional model could damage Harlow Council's credentials as a modern dynamic local authority," it adds.

The two other options are a Westminster-style leader and cabinet system which is used by most councils in England, or a directly elected mayor as in the case of London.

In both scenarios, more decisions are made by cabinet members with specialised responsibilities rather than committees.

Council leader Andrew Johnson insisted the council had been transparent and open from the start of the consultation process.

"The contents of the document reflect the purpose of the consultation," he said. "It outlines the two executive options that we could change to and also clearly explains that the present committee system could remain."

He added: "What is important is once consultation begins, residents and businesses let the council know their views. The open-ended comment form in the document and other consultation methods will enable them to do just that."

The consultation starts on Monday and runs until October 1.

Suspects held after high-speed pursuit

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

PARTS of Harlow came to a standstill on Tuesday as a police chase ended in a full-scale manhunt for two men suspected of driving offences.

People living in Potter Street and Hastingwood reported seeing a police helicopter hovering over the area as officers from the Hertfordshire Constabulary closed the net on two men they had pursued from a supermarket car park in Welwyn Garden City.

The 25-mile high-speed pursuit along the A414 and through Hertford and Harlow came to an end at around 3.30pm when the two suspects abandoned the grey Ford Focus near St Clare Hospice in Hastingwood and attempted to flee on foot.

Chased by police officers, they made a dash through the hospice grounds towards Glovers Farm before finally being caught and arrested.

Their car was described by one onlooker as "badly smashed-up" after it struck two other vehicles. Police said no-one was injured.

Another witness, who did not want to be named, watched as one of the suspects ran from police.

"I was coming up to the M11 roundabout from Hastingwood when I noticed a badly damaged Ford Focus that had been left at the entrance to St Clare Hospice," he told the Star. "One of the front wheels was hanging off and the windscreen was smashed."

"Then, as I neared the roundabout, I spotted a man legging it up the road towards Thornwood as police officers chased."

"All the while the police helicopter was circling above and there were patrol cars and officers everywhere. It was like watching the manhunt for Raoul Moat!"

A 23-year-old man from Blackheath in south-east London was arrested on suspicion of failing to stop for police, while a 25-year-old man from London was arrested on suspicion of dangerous driving and Proceeds of Crime Act offences.

Both were taken to Harlow Police Station before being transferred to Hatfield where they were still being questioned as the Star went to press yesterday (Wednesday).

Six heads are better than one

TALES of six-headed beasts are usually confined to ancient legend – but not for one Old Harlow resident who found one growing in her back garden!

Jennifer Steadman, of Watlington Road, came across this bizarre-looking sunflower with six co-joined heads as she tended to her plants.

"My mum, Jean, actually grew it from a seed from one of her flowers from last year, but gave it to me to plant in my garden and it grew into this beast!" Jennifer told the Star.

"The other three she gave me have grown into normal looking sunflowers so how this one has evolved we will probably never know."

"I've searched for pictures of sunflowers with multiple heads on the internet but so far, have failed to find anything that resembles my weird flower. It's really quite impressive!"

Building sites a no-go zone for children looking to play

YOUNGSTERS have been warned about the dangers of playing on construction sites.

With schools about to break up for the summer, Barratt North London – which is building the Gateway housing development in Fifth Avenue, Harlow – has urged parents to tell their children to stay clear.

Construction director Peter Stone said: "Youngsters often look for somewhere new to play but construction sites are not adventure playgrounds.

"As the school holidays are about to start, it is important to remind children and parents about the potential dangers of building sites and the need to stay away from them."

"Our teams watch out for youngsters while they are working and we secure our sites when we finish for the day, but we also ask parents to make sure they know where their children are during the holiday time."

Park-and-ride buses weren't cost-effective

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TWO weeks ago we asked readers to throw some light on the park-and-ride bus service that operated in the town for a brief period during the 1980s.

We published this photograph, taken in December 1983, of one of the buses that ran from outside Harlow Town rail station.

So we were delighted to receive a letter from former resident Ken Hughes, who wrote to Nostalgia after being sent a cutting by a friend who lives in the town. Ken is the man standing in the middle in pale trousers.

"I was chief engineer at Harlow Council at the time," writes Ken, who now lives in Folkestone.

"You are right in that the photo was taken outside the town station. The person in the doorway of the bus is Cecil Condon, who was chairman of the council's highways committee.

"The wisdom of the park-and-ride service was that parking in the town was difficult over the Christmas period so the council decided to experiment with a Christmas park-and-ride service."

The council faced the difficulty of finding a suitable car park from which to operate the scheme, according to Ken. However, the rail station management agreed to let the car park there be used for the service which operated every Saturday.

"I think the frequency was every 15-20 minutes and it ran from the station to the town centre," said Ken. "But there were problems in that train passengers tried to use the service."

"Initially the service was well used and there were plans to extend the scheme to cater for people using the A11 but no suitable parking could be found.

"The service was initially free.

Then a voluntary contribution was tried but the scheme was eventually abandoned as it was not cost-effective."

Ken said that efforts to obtain financial support from town centre traders found very little response. The picture comes from the collection of the Museum of Harlow.

Diggers running out of time

TIME was against archaeologists working in Old Harlow in 1970, so much so that the town's museum enlisted the help of local schoolchildren and teachers.

In July that year volunteers and museum staff worked long hours to excavate the site in River Way before it was concreted over to become a factory.

The archaeologists were told by Harlow Development Corporation and the developers that they had just three weeks to complete five years worth of digging.

In this newspaper cutting supplied by Ron Bill we can see the band of enthusiasts furiously excavating the site. Their early findings, according to reports at the time, suggested that at one time there may have been a large Roman farmstead there.

Museum curator Stuart Eglington-Mead said at the time: "We are progressing by means of cut-throat competition. If one person finds a piece of pottery, the others try the harder to equal this or do better."

● Were you one of the children or teachers who took part in the excavations? If so, send your memories of the dig to Nostalgia, Harlow Star, 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or email them to daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Bike ride to NY

At the age of 64, Harlow's Arthur Mann is attempting to ride to New York. He will cycle from Harlow to Southampton where he will board the QEII. He will then cycle for eight hours every day in the ship's gym as it sails to the Big Apple.

Stan's the man

Former Harlow MP Stan Newens has been chosen by Harlow Labour Party to fight the seat in the next election. Mr Newens who is now a Euro-MP, beat his nearest rival in a ballot following a four-hour selection meeting.

Bus complaints

Complaints about the 711 bus service from Harlow to London often represent only a minority of passengers, it was claimed. Some 74 season ticket holders have written to London County Bus Services saying the service is vital.

Stolen bike returned

A Star Ranger whose bike was stolen has had it returned by a Good Samaritan. Phillip Lee (10) suffers from chronic asthma and needed his red Chopper to get to his friends' homes. It had been stolen from outside the swimming pool.

Police renew appeal for sightings of missing OAP

POLICE are still looking for a 70-year-old grandfather from Harlow who has been missing from his home for two months.

Officers working on the case have confirmed there have been no reported sightings of Peter Schofield, pictured above, since he was last seen outside Ladbroke's in Terminus Street on Thursday, May 20.

A spokeswoman for Essex Police said yesterday (Wednesday): "Peter is still missing. We are renewing our appeal for information about his whereabouts."

The grandfather-of-four is a man of routine and regularly visited Ladbroke's, Yates's wine bar, The Shark pub in Colt Hatch and The Phoenix pub in Hart Road.

Speaking at a press conference last month, his daughter Louise Schofield said: "We're hoping that someone has seen him and can just let us know where he is. What's hard is not knowing."

"All his friends and family really miss him, love him and want to know that he is safe."

Mr Schofield is described as white, 5ft 7ins tall, of slight build with short dark brown hair and brown eyes. He is usually clean shaven and was last seen wearing a pale blue flat cap bearing the Tottenham Hotspur Football Club logo and jeans.

He has tattoos of the words "love" and "hate" on his fingers and suits of cards on the backs of his hands.

Anyone with information is asked to contact police at Harlow CID on 0300 333 4444.

Market man's fury at 'crazy' parking fines

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A FURIOUS market trader hit with parking fines of almost £500 said he would rather face court action than pay up.

John Kline, who runs the Prince Albert jacket potato stall in Market Square, was given seven parking tickets in June despite leaving his car in the same bay he has used for almost 25 years and clearly displaying his trader's permit in the windscreen.

But because he was forced to use a courtesy car for two days while his own vehicle was being repaired, Mr Kline had the permit cancelled by Harlow Council, even though he contacted the parking services department to explain the situation.

"I couldn't believe it when they said I'd need to apply and pay for a new permit just to park a different car in my space for a couple of days," he told the Star.

"I've used that car park for almost 25 years. All the wardens know who I am and exactly where to find me if there's a problem, but no-one bothered. They just kept slapping tickets on my windscreen."

He received his first £70 fine on June 8 after parking his replacement car in the commercial car park in Post Office Road. The following day he received a second ticket.

After contacting the council to complain, Mr Kline later discovered that officers had contacted the owner of the garage where his car was being repaired to inform him he would be liable for payment if Mr Kline refused to pay up.

"It was crazy, it just spiralled out of all control," said Mr Kline. "If they want that money they're going to have to take me to court; there's no way I'm paying up."

Tony Hall, chairman of the council's policy working group, said a letter had

PARKING MAD: John Kline is refusing to pay fines totalling almost £500 after he was ticketed for using a replacement car been sent to Mr Kline advising him to lodge a formal appeal against the penalties.

"We have instructed parking attendants not to place any further tickets on his car over the next two weeks," he said. "This is to give him time to come and talk to us and go through the terms and conditions of using the permit."

"Once he has done this, the council will reissue the permit which was cancelled after he indicated that he did not intend to abide by the rules of the permit scheme."

Stroke victim ended his life by stepping in front of train

A MAN who became depressed after suffering a minor stroke killed himself by standing in the path of an express train at Harlow Town station, an inquest heard.

Chelmsford Coroner's Court heard that the world of Alan Baker (55), of The Hornbeams, Harlow, "fell apart" when he had the stroke.

Coroner's officer Ria Hill told the inquest Mr Baker suffered the stroke on April 1 this year which affected his health. He became depressed and was afraid he would lose his job.

"He took an overdose on April 25 having left a note," she added. "However, he was treated and discharged after seeing mental health staff."

At 8.50pm on April 29 he was seen by the driver of the Stansted Express to place his hands on the edge of the platform at Harlow Town station and climb down on to the track.

The driver was powerless to stop the train and Mr Baker was killed instantly.

Coroner Caroline Beasley-Murray recorded a verdict of suicide. "The stroke had a devastating effect upon him," she said.

Firefighters agree deal to end year-long dispute the lives of firefighters and the public at increased risk," said Mr Flynn. "We also believe the public expect cuts to frontline 999 services should only ever be considered as a last resort. Our members agree and so it is time to bring this dispute to an end to focus on the future."

Chief Fire Officer David Johnson welcomed the deal but warned it offered "no absolute guarantees" given the possibility of Government cuts in the future.

"We are obviously delighted that the Essex FBU membership has supported the Brigade Committee's recommendation to accept the negotiated terms of the settlement," said Mr Johnson.

"It would be duplicious of us to suggest that we can deliver any absolute guarantees because of the uncertainty surrounding public sector cuts."

"I would urge the FBU negotiating team to stay focused on the challenge at hand and to co-operate with us as we seek to deliver efficiencies while maintaining services and protecting as many jobs as we can."

He added: "Now is not the time to be involved in an acrimonious relationship because we all need to work together to protect what is important to us all."

BEFORE: Charlie weighs in at 31 stone

Catering student Charlie enjoying the taste of life as a lightweight

A WEIGHT-conscious catering student at Harlow College has shed an astonishing 10 stone in less than a year.

Charlie Wright (20), who is studying for an NVQ at Harlow College, tipped the scales at 31 stone last October.

Determined to do something about his size, he joined Ripped Gym in Harlow and trained four times a week. Then, in January, he started working out under the guidance of a personal trainer.

Charlie set himself a target of losing 10 stone and finally reached his goal last month. However he is not stopping there and is turning his attention to a spot of bodybuilding so he can flex some well-toned muscles.

Staff at the gym were so impressed with his attitude that they asked if he would work in the catering area.

A gym spokesman said: "Charlie achieved this all this on his own. There were no weight watchers and no gastric bands, just sheer guts, determination and the will to succeed.

"All we wait for now are the NVQ results which we are sure are going to be another notch on his ever decreasing belt."

Celebs lining up to tackle cops in football fundraiser

THE list of showbusiness celebrities preparing to line up against Harlow police in a charity game of football later this month is getting longer.

Among those who have said they will take part, subject to work commitments, are Jeff Brazier, Frankie Fitzgerald who played Ashley Cotton in EastEnders, Darren White from Sky 1's Dream Team, Tony Mortimer and Terry Coldwell from pop group East 17, music producer Damien Knowles, DJ and TV presenter Ed Draper and writer and novelist Matthew J Gunn.

Actor Duncan Pow, who plays surgeon Linden Cullen in the BBC1 hospital drama Holby City, will be present on the day but will not play. Organisers have hinted that X Factor star Chico and James Walsh from rock band Starsailor could also turn up but this has not been confirmed yet.

The celebrities will stay behind after the game to sign autographs for fans. As well as the match there will also be a host of other activities for all the family to enjoy. Proceeds from the event will go to Child Victims of Crime and other children's charities.

Police community support officer Dave Brown, who is also manager of Harlow Police FC, pictured above, said: "It started out as a friendly kick around but soon grew with the amount of celebrities offering to play and support these charities. "The whole idea about becoming an official team was to have a chance to meet people in our communities at a new level."

The game will kick off at 11.30am on Sunday, July 25 at Harlow Greyhound Stadium, in Roydon Road. Gates open at 11am and admission is £2 (£1 concessions).

Charity seeking host families for orphans during visit to UK

A CHARITY offering Romanian orphans the chance to visit the UK for a two-week break have made an urgent appeal for a family in the Harlow area to take in two boys.

A group of 40 children arriving later this month had already been found homes for the duration of their stay but one of the families has been forced to pull out.

Paul Jarvis, publicity officer for the Moreton Romanian Orphans Fund which is organising the trip, said: "We are appealing for an additional one or two families to host a child for two weeks from July 24 to August 7."

Anyone able to offer assistance should contact Barbara Saunders from the charity on (01279) 832001.

Bereaved family waits TWO years for inquest date

THE family of a pensioner who died following surgery at Princess Alexandra Hospital is still waiting for an inquest to take place more than two years after her death.

Joan Townson (67), of The Orchards, Sawbridgeworth, died in May 2008, a few days after she had an operation to remove her ovaries. After the surgery it was discovered she had suffered a perforated bowel.

Mrs Townson's daughter, Joanne Benge, sought advice from Harlow-based law firm Attwaters, which specialises in cases of clinical negligence, with a view to starting legal proceedings against the hospital.

Attwaters contacted the county coroner's office in June 2008 regarding a date for an inquest into the circumstances surrounding Mrs Townson's death. But the process has ground to a halt because a date for a hearing has still not been set.

When the firm contacted the coroner's office last month it was told Mrs

By DAN PHILLIPS

Townson's case was still caught in a backlog.

Mrs Benge, also of The Orchards, said: "This has been a black cloud hanging over us and I feel we can't move on until the inquest has been held. It is so frustrating that we are still waiting for answers."

Madeline Seibert, a partner at Attwaters, described the delay as shocking and said it had left Mrs Townson's family distraught.

"We've been waiting over two years so far and there is absolutely no clue from the coroner's office as to when the inquest might be scheduled," she said. "For all we know it might not be for many months yet."

She added: "Mrs Townson's family are very distraught at the manner of their mother's death and understandably want the hospital to reveal what may have gone wrong. In these circumstances the inquest is extremely important to them."

"It may very well impact upon the civil case and may also provide valuable evidence as to what went wrong. But whatever the cause of these delays, it is a shocking and disrespectful way to treat families and clearly they deserve much better."

A spokesman for Essex County Council, which took over responsibility for the coroner's service in December 2008, said that at that time there was a large number of inquests outstanding.

"We acknowledge that there have been issues over the last two years in progressing inquests as quickly as we would have liked due to the high volume of work and staffing," he said. "However, we are now fully staffed and have completed 305 inquests for the Essex & Thurrock jurisdiction to date this year compared to 377 for the whole of 2009."

"We apologise to the family of Mrs Townson and will ensure we hasten all outstanding reports the coroner requires to allow the inquest to be heard at the earliest possible date."

who verbally abused her.

Multi-coloured model sheep is a real b-e-we-ty

SCORES of Harlow children helped decorate two of the fibreglass sheep that will form part of a ewe-nique art trail which it is hoped will have visitors flocking to the town centre from the end of the month.

A special workshop for youngsters was run at the Water Gardens shopping centre on Saturday by Harlow-based Creative Space Artists Co-operative.

The group has run numerous similar projects in the town including the woodland environment display at 7-9 West Gate. Peartree Mead School pupil Ellie Chambers (7), pictured left, helped design the birds and butterflies which decorated the two models.

The Harlow Summertime Sheep Trail, which is launched on July 31, will see 29 sheep located at various points around the town centre. Maps will be provided for people to find them.

The trail coincides with the sheep-themed Henry Moore exhibition which also opens later this month at The Gibberd Gallery in Harlow Civic Centre.

Driver's car hit tot playing with crayons

A DRIVER who accidentally ran over a three-year-old girl playing outside her home has pleaded guilty to dangerous driving.

Trudy Hamil (48), of Churchfields, Harlow, struck the tot as she was crayoning. Chelmsford Crown Court was told.

Specific details of the little girl's injuries were not given in court, but she was said to have been seriously injured.

The court was told that when Hamil parked her car near to her home she had been told children were playing some considerable distance from her vehicle.

The accident happened when she returned to her vehicle and drove off.

Remanding Hamil on bail for presentence reports until August 10, Judge Anthony Goldstaub said she would have to be punished.

However, he added: "I am not going to send this lady immediately to prison although her driving was bad."

Budget will help to redistribute wealth

SIR, Whilst I understand the concerns set out by some of your correspondents regarding the budget (Letters, July 8) particularly given the difficult economic climate, it is important to set out a few facts.

The outgoing Labour finance minister, Liam Byrne, left a note which said: "There is no money left." Even Gordon Brown had planned £40bn of spending cuts.

Our public debt is now £900bn. Imagine buying a new Wembley Stadium 1,125 times over, with over £22,000 of debt for every man, woman, and child in the UK.

Yet despite this, the new coalition government has made every effort to ensure more money has been distributed from the rich to the poor in living memory.

● The income tax threshold was raised by £1,000, removing hundreds of thousands of people from income tax altogether

● A new 'pupil premium' will boost education for one million disadvantaged school children

● A new 'Robin Hood' levy on banks will be introduced from January 2011

● NHS spending will be ringfenced

● The basic state pension will rise by earnings, prices or 2.5 per cent, whichever is greater

● Child Tax Credit will increase generously next year

● An extra £60m will help fund an additional room for carers over the next few years

● Top rate taxpayers will pay higher Capital Gains Tax

● There will be a two-year public sector pay freeze except for the 1.7 million on lower incomes

● Council tax frozen next year

● Housing benefit was capped at £250 per week for a one-bedroom property, £290 for two, £340 for three and £400 for a four-bedroom property. So hardworking Harlow families will no longer have to subsidise people to live in mansions they themselves could not afford

● A Capital Gains Tax on the assets of the rich so we no longer have a situation that they pay less tax than their cleaners.

So this really was a 'Robin Hood' budget, designed to help the most vulnerable whilst ensuring that our economy is put back on track.

Robert Halfon, Harlow MP

Face up to living in the real world

SIR, How very predictable are the rantings of Labour stalwarts Ian Beckett and Jean Clark in last week's letters column.

Please tell me why it is that every avid supporter of Labour who is absolutely great at eating the cake has no skill in the baking of it?

Harold Wilson told us the pound in our pockets would not be worth any less after devaluing it by 14 per cent.

Jim Callaghan asked "Crisis. What crisis?" and left us with debt of mountainous proportion.

Gordon Brown systematically robbed those least able to afford the added costs on everything that came from his war on vehicular transport. And who was the "prudent" chancellor who left us with the need for such savage cuts in public spending and plans for even more unaffordable projects?

Of course, any cuts in services or VAT increases are felt most by the poorest;

Pool visit left family disappointed

SIR, We thought for a family treat on my husband's birthday we would try the new swimming pool at the Leisurezone.

We arrived to find a notice up at the reception/payment desk telling us the main pool was closed. When we asked why we were told it was too dangerous to use.

There was no apology from the member of staff but she went on to inform us the children's pool was open. Having our two-year-old granddaughter with us we didn't want to disappoint her, so four adults and my granddaughter went in, only to find each adult was charged full price.

As a family we were not impressed. This town has been without a pool for so long, yet after only two weeks the main pool was closed.

Surely the least we could have been offered was a more welcoming reception from the member of staff and a decent reduction for the disappointment. Our first visit might be the last one at this rate.

The Govey family
Herons Wood, Harlow

it has always been so. But just who was it that ate not only cake but also the ingredients to make any more for a long and painful time?

It certainly wasn't Robert Halfon, whom Jean Clark glibly accuses of swallowing spin.

And as for the loss of a million non jobs created by Labour, perhaps she would do well to remember that the greater part of the debt burden is due to paying for them to monitor the thousands of new laws created by a knee jerk reaction type government. And, of course, the many more employed to dream up ever more grandiose plans to spend money on that our great grandchildren would have to pay back.

Unfortunately we all now have to come back to the real world, including dyed in the wool Labour supporters,

We must invest in our children

SIR, Though I (like many) didn't vote for the Conservatives, I was pleased to see Bill Rammell exiting stage left, and I had great hopes of the new type of politics heralded by the Liberal Democrats.

I am absolutely behind all efforts to get down the national debt but recently have realised that, once again, the hype is just that: words, words, words.

I have lived in Harlow nearly all of my 44 years. The town gets a bad mouthing from those who do not reside here and I put them straight of course. I, as a born and bred Harlow lad, have the right to bad mouth my town, they do not.

It's the simple things that always lets the town down: grime and crime. I think Harlow is a great urban design but a great design is ruined by litter and graffiti everywhere.

Then there is the policing question. Once again we have all the talk of more bobbies on the beat and freeing up police so that they can catch criminals. Recently I felt it urgent enough to call 999 to report a youth haring about on an unlicensed motorbike at very high speed. What was the response? A PCSO on a mountain bike.

I think if the Government scraps PCSOs it will easily save the £500m it is looking for from the policing budget and then we might, just might, get some real decent policing by real police officers.

Finally, the Government announced it would be scrapping the school building programme as it did not represent value for money. Does it really expect a nation which has bailed out the banks to the tune of £185bn, who see BBC TV personalities on millions a year and who have suffered MPs claiming for everything from pencils to duck ponds that schools don't represent value for money?

If we fail to invest in our children, we may as well turn off the lights and shut up shop. The same government which does this will no doubt pour scorn on disenfranchised youths who litter, graffiti and tear about on motorbikes because they feel they have no value and no future.

Hardly surprising when they are being educated in a cabin that boils in summer and freezes in winter. Shame upon you all.

Not finished at 55

SIR, So Bill Rammell feels he will be approaching his sell-by date at the next election (Star, July 1).

What a sad and pathetic comment from someone who will be in his mid 50s in five years time and a kick in the proverbial for those of us who have reached their bus pass age and have to fight age discrimination.

Bill, you are not finished at 55 or whatever. Have you not heard of the word experience? Perhaps you spent too much time with other politicians.

I would guess that such a comment would not be put on your CV presented to future employers.

Peter Henegan

Save our spaces

SIR, I was both sad and annoyed to read in the Star that more of our Town Park is being sold for commercial development ("Swim pool land sold for housing", July 1).

This land was transferred from Harlow Development Corporation to Harlow Council in the 1960s at open space value. It was covenanted to remain as public open space in perpetuity.

Our elected councillors then became the guardians of these public rights and responsibilities.

With the continuing loss of Town Park land and green wedges, it seems that all our open spaces are at risk. But I'm sure I speak for a majority of residents that we do not want our town concreted over.

Sir Frederick Gibberd produced a masterly master plan. Could we, perhaps, now have a pledge from Harlow Council that there will be no further erosion or sale of his carefully planned green open spaces – our fresh air lungs?

Weave been around for 30 years!

MANY a yarn was spun on Saturday when members of the East Herts and West Essex Guild of Spinners, Weavers and Dyers celebrated the group's 30th birthday lunch.

Around 30 members and guests turned up at the Museum of Harlow, in Muskham Road, to toast the anniversary with a glass of bubbly.

The group displayed a variety of their products including felt cushion covers, hats made with homespun alpaca hair and sheep fleece.

MP first to take on an apprentice

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon is set to break with Parliamentary tradition by hiring a teenage apprentice to work as a political researcher in his Westminster office.

MPs usually take their pick from hundreds of graduates willing to work for nothing as interns, but Mr Halfon will become the first member of the House of Commons to take on a paid apprentice from within his own constituency.

He will select a candidate from a shortlist drawn up by Harlow College, which currently runs a successful apprenticeship scheme in partnership with Essex County Council.

This week he told the Star the interview process was already under way.

"I have been a long-time supporter of apprenticeships and the scheme run at Harlow College is one I have long championed," he said.

"I did my maiden speech in the House of Commons on apprenticeships so I thought I would put my money where my mouth is and become the first MP to hire an apprentice."

Mr Halfon's lead is already being followed by other MPs, with Business Minister John

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Hayes recently announcing he will also be appointing an apprentice.

Mr Halfon added: "It would be easy to pick from the hundreds of Oxbridge types offering their services for free, but I felt the role would be far more beneficial to someone who would never normally get such a unique opportunity."

The successful candidate will work part-time in Mr Halfon's Westminster office for around three days a week and will assist the MP with research and day-to-day administrative tasks.

The pay will be £100 per week – equivalent to the salary paid to apprentices in industry – and will be funded part-privately, with half coming from party donations and the remainder from Essex County Council.

"Apprenticeships are absolutely crucial in giving young people the skills they require to do the jobs of the future," said Mr Halfon.

"If you give young people that opportunity, they will grow to believe they achieve something with their lives."

RUM TUM TUGGERS: Fathers went back to pre-school when they joined their children for a special bring-your-dads day at the Riddings Lane nursery.

They got their hands mucky during messy play, helped their children make tea and some even had their faces painted as they joined in with a typical afternoon's activities.

Manager Laura Boltwood said: "It was a fantastic day and the dads really threw themselves into all the activities. They had a great time revisiting their own childhood.

"To be honest I'm not sure who had more fun, the dads or the kids!"

LATTON GREEN: Young gymnasts at the Harlow primary school have been setting the bar high recently with a string of achievements.

The Key Stage 2 gymnastics team were narrowly beaten to the top prize in the Eastern Regional competition held in Ipswich towards the end of last month.

Liz Hazlehurst, the school's PE co-ordinator, said: "It was a fantastic achievement! The team worked really hard and both their vaults and floor routines were performed to a high standard."

She is pictured with Luke Melvin (9), Kayla Walls (7), Jamie Melvin (9), Becky Fox (8), Rebecca Howlett (8) and Abbie Culverhouse (7).

Earlier in the year the Key Stage 1 and 2 teams were the winners of the Essex county championships.

HOLY CROSS: Children from the Traces Road pre-school paid a visit to the site of the new Passmores School.

They were given hard hats to wear while being shown around the construction site which is a short walk down the road from the nursery.

Builders Wilmott Dixon had even put up a viewing tower especially for the youngsters to make sure they could get a good view of the whole site.

Nursery manager Ann Tierney said: "The children were fascinated to learn more about transport and construction and see first-hand what happens on a building site.

"Wilmott Dixon have really made a great effort to engage with the local community and we are very grateful for their invitation to view the site.

They even got a gold star from the children!"

KIDDI CARU: A special messy play afternoon and picnic to celebrate Father's Day was held at the nursery in Kiln Lane.

Children played with a variety of materials such as jelly, flour, sand and water with many dads taking time off work to join in.

Deputy manager Aimee Hume said: "Most of the children and dads ended up looking very white by the end of it because of the flour!"

"It was nice for the dads as we do something for Mother's Day and dads can feel left out sometimes! It's about building partnerships with the whole family."

Prince's Trust giving jobless Louise a boost

By SOPHIE WARNER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A YOUNG woman struggling to find a job during the recession has successfully turned her life around after becoming an ambassador for a leading youth charity.

Louise Cook (22), of The Hides, Harlow, had been out of work for six months when she came across an advertisement for The Prince's Trust Team programme.

She decided to enrol in the confidence-boosting course and is now well on her way to becoming a fully qualified youth worker.

"When I found the course it made me happier than I had been all year," she said. "I absolutely loved doing the team programme – it gave me even more inspiration to become a youth worker."

Ms Cook has since been taking part in The Prince's Trust Youth Step programme and currently volunteers four days a week in alternative education and a local youth club.

"I will achieve my dream to become a youth worker as I am determined to get there," she said. "My dream job would be to be working for The Prince's Trust."

The Prince's Trust was set up in 1976 by the Prince of Wales, with the goal of helping young people fulfil their potential.

The charity supports 16-25 year-olds who have struggled at school, been in care, suffered with long-term unemployment or been in trouble with the law, has helped more than 3,500 youngsters in the east of England region get back on their feet in the past year alone.

It provides help and support in getting back into education, work or training in order for them to turn their lives around and look to the future.

Diamond couple to celebrate with a day trip to the seaside

A COUPLE from Harlow are celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary today (Thursday).

Bill and Irene Beare, of Cooks Spinney, met 63 years ago at Irene's aunt's home in Tottenham. "He carried the washing home for me," said Irene (78). "We then went out in a group. I was 18 and he was 22."

They were married in 1950 and moved to Harlow in 1961 after getting jobs at local factories. Bill (82) only retired two years ago after working in security for 38 years.

The couple have two children, four grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Irene said there is no secret to a long, happy marriage. "Don't tell each other any lies and help each other out," she said.

"We do tell each other off sometimes but on the whole he's not a bad old thing to have around – and he would say the same about me!"

To celebrate their anniversary, Irene and Bill are being taken out for a meal tonight and, if the weather is good, they will have a day trip to Clacton at the weekend.

Betraying your confidence

The Parliament overwhelmingly approved the Alvaro Report which signs the UK up to a non-reciprocal deal with the US allowing American investigators access to personal and confidential information about British citizens, including their bank records.

The Parliament voted to give the EU full control over British financial institutions with the regulatory body to be based in Frankfurt (the UK's own auditors have rejected its accounts for the last 15 years!).

The EU has backed down on their proposed rat poison ban - for the time being.

Belgium took over the six-monthly Council of the EU Presidency. Unfortunately, the Belgians do not have a Government at present. A coalition is expected later this year.

I voted 261 times during the session.

SECRET MESSAGE Jruhu gauf Fcvquh-zob yviu? Ab gru jahyq jvqu jun

Here comes the amazing Spider-boy!

WOULD-be superhero Hibiki Kono has fulfilled his dream of becoming Spider-Man after building an ingenious gadget that lets him climb walls.

The 13-year-old schoolboy made the incredible climbing machine using suction power from vacuum cleaners.

He then amazed his friends by using the suckerpads to climb a school wall during morning assembly.

"I used to dress up as Spider-Man when I was younger and I love all the films, so it's great to be able to climb walls like him," said Hibiki.

He spent five months designing and making the gadget in his design technology lessons at King's College School, Cambridge.

He used two 1400 watt vacuum cleaners bought for £14.98 each from Tesco and attached square wooden pads to the nozzles. When he presses the suction pads on the wall they support his weight and enable him to climb, just like his favourite superhero.

Angus Gen, Hibiki's design technology teacher, said: "I'm hugely proud of him. When he came to me with the idea I had my doubts but once he proved it could be done I encouraged him."

"He developed it himself, which is amazing for someone his age. He spent two-and-a-half hours a week creating it over the last five months."

Kitchen comedy is a singular success

REVIEW

Absurd Person Singular
Moot House Players, Moot Hall

AS anyone who has sought solace at the bottom of their upwardly mobile neighbour's gin bottle during a typically excruciating Yuletide drinks party will know, peace on Earth and goodwill to all men are rarely at the forefront of one's mind at Christmas time.

The perils of the festive season are brought sharply into focus in Alan Ayckbourn's masterful black comedy, a deliciously dark game of social chess played out in three kitchens over successive Christmas Eves.

A play of three acts – each with its own distinctive tone – it is a behind-the-scenes journey through the English class system; from the obsessively clean and functional quarters of lower middle-class social misfits Sidney and his jittery wife Jane, through the slatternly kitchen of lecherous, struggling architect Geoff and his manic-depressive wife Eva to the opulent but freezing cold home of filthy rich but emotionally bankrupt bank manager Ronald and his permanently sozzled spouse Marion.

As each year passes, the fortunes of each couple change. Sidney's inexorable rise from slimy wheeler-dealer to nouveau riche property developer sits in stark contrast to the economic misfortunes befalling his lazily arrogant professional peers.

By the final act Sidney has completed his ascent to the top of the social tree, having those he once held in such high regard dancing to his tune as they wearily play party games on his orders.

Under the assured direction of Moot House Players stalwart and Ayckbourn fanatic Jon Macnamara, the play was always in a safe pair of hands and he was ably supported by an impressive cast.

Dan Powell put in a thunderous turn as Sidney, clearly relishing his character's unstoppable rise from corner terrace obscurity to sharp-suited property king, while Kerry Rowland impressed as his put-upon, nervy wife Jane.

Husband and wife team Alan and Angela Hodgson put in good performances as bullish architect Geoff and his suicidal partner Eva, Angela's hilarious suicide attempts in the middle act wringing the most laughs of the night.

But it was, perhaps, Tim and Nic Parkes – another husband and wife team – who stole the show. Tim's brilliantly fuddy-duddy, world-weary bank manager Ronald was only topped by Nic's side-splitting performance as his lush of a wife Marion as the gin gradually drowns her last shred of dignity.

A musical meltdown Festival for all the family

GREASE up your pomp and hot-foot it down to The Square this Saturday for a supercharged rock 'n' roll hop as vintage lifestyle magazine Milkcow celebrates its first anniversary with a day of music and mayhem.

Featuring six live bands, a sizzling burlesque revue and a sprawling vintage clothing and record fair, the Milkcow Meltdown will turn black the clock to the halcyon days of root beer, rockabilly and rebellion.

Promoted by Square regulars Roosters, the all-day extravaganza will kick off at midday and continue through to 3am with live music from The Caravans, The Bonneville Barons, The Mojokings, Daddy Slikshift,

The Ladykillers and Jezebel. DJs Bad Bop and Cooter will keep the throng entertained in between bands, while a live Burlesque show will undoubtedly set tongues wagging once the live music comes to a close.

Parking space will be limited to make way for the vintage fair, which will be selling everything from rare 45s to retro kitchenalia. Refreshments will be available from The Square's two bars all day, while snack and ice-cream vans will see that punters don't go hungry.

Tickets, priced £15, are available from www.milkcow.co.uk or 07785 575552.

GLASTONBURY may have been and gone for another year but those suffering post-festival blues have the perfect antidote this Sunday as Harlow rocks out to Linkfest 2010.

Co-organised by The GPCA Link Club, local music venue The Square and drama school Phoenix and supported by the Star, this all-day extravaganza on playing fields off Parsloe Road will feature a star-studded musical line-up, a theatre tent, fun fair, fully licensed bar and food stalls.

Big names confirmed for the event include The Subways and proto-punk legends Eddie & The Hot Rods, while local next-big-things Bite, guttersnipe punks Ten O Sevens and devilish duo Popdad also feature on the bill.

The theatre tent will be compered by Phoenix Theatre School principal Phil Dale and will showcase the very best in drama, dance and music from performing arts groups across the town. Organiser Jamie Pring, from The Link, said if it proved to be a hit he hoped to make it an annual event.

"Harlow's been crying out for a music festival for a long time now," he said. "When you look at some of the great bands that keep cropping up in the town and see the number of people who regularly go to venues like The Link and The Square to watch live music, it doesn't take a genius to work out that the town is the ideal location for an annual music festival."

Tickets for LinkFest are on sale now at Harlow Playhouse priced at £10 for adults and £5 for under-12s.

Meanwhile, Victoria (Bryce Dallas Howard) returns to Forks to kill Bella in revenge for Edward's slaying of her lover. Shrek agrees to the Faustian pact, blind to Rumpelstiltskin's devious plan to erase the day that Shrek was born and thereby alter the future. Shrek must join forces with Donkey (Eddie Murphy) and Puss in Boots (Antonio Banderas) to break the pact before the sands in Rumpelstiltskin's oversized hourglass run out.

TOY STORY 3 (3D & 2D) certificate U 1h48m

THE toys are back in town as the computer animation wizards at Pixar bid a fond farewell to Woody, Buzz Lightyear and their other beloved creations.

The good news is Toy Story 3 surpasses the 1995 original and its 1999 sequel for thrills, spills and belly laughs, delivering the most satisfying journey of the rootin' tootin' trilogy.

The final 10 minutes of Lee Unkrich's film are sublime, guaranteed to wring floods of saltwater from audiences as the animators strike the perfect balance between laughter and tears. Toy Story 3 has it all.

This time Andy (voiced by John Morris) is preparing to leave for college.

He has packed up his belongings, setting aside Woody (Tom Hanks) for life on campus, while the other toys are bound for the attic in a black bin liner.

Unfortunately, Andy's mother mistakes the bag for rubbish and donates the toys to the Sunnyside day care centre, a brightly coloured paradise ruled by Lots-o'-Huggin' Bear (Ned Beatty) who convinces Buzz (Tim Allen), Jessie the cowgirl (Joan Cusack) and the gang they will be deliriously happy in their new home.

Barbie (Jodi Benson) is especially happy to meet Ken (Michael Keaton), who has dreamy abs and a walk-in closet to rival the Sex And The City gals.

Having said farewell to his buddies, Woody meets a stuffed hedgehog called Mr Pricklepants (Timothy Dalton), who reveals the truth about the day care centre – a place of ruin and despair, ruled over by an evil bear who smells of strawberries.

So Woody races back to the centre to orchestrate an elaborate escape plan and return all of his friends to Andy's attic.

Toy Story 3 opens with a breathtaking action sequence and continues to dazzle with each brilliantly orchestrated set piece. The script sparkles with hilarious one-liners while Ken and Barbie's courtship is hysterical.

And there are romantic sparks too between Jessie and Buzz, the latter discovering his passionate side thanks to a malfunction with the language settings.

Hanks and Allen are in delightful form, sparking off one another as their characters go to infinity and beyond one last time.

City car is every inch an Audi

By RICHARD M HAMMOND

NO-ONE could accuse Mini of failing to stay on top of its game. Constant revisions to the core hatch models embellished with new variants means the charismatic range stays fresh.

But that hasn't stopped competition from growing in ferocity. The Fiat 500 stole the Mini's crown as the motorised fashion accessory of choice on its arrival in 2008.

Meanwhile, the Alfa Romeo Mito has been doing its best to tempt style and image-conscious small car buyers away from the retro-inspired scene, a tactic also employed by Citroen with the new DS3.

Now life is about to get a lot tougher for all of those models because the unstoppable automotive force that is German premium manufacturer Audi is about to launch another new model on a fully expectant world. The A1 is Audi's smallest model since the unsuccessful – by Audi's high standards at least – A2. By common consensus, the A2 is now considered a car ahead of its time. The domed styling and lightweight aluminium body were not as well received then as they

FACTfile
Audi A1 1.2 TFSI SE	PRICE £13,145 on the road
ENGINE	1.2-litre petrol unit developing 85bhp and 118lb/ft of torque
TRANSMISSION	5-speed manual transmission driving front wheels
PERFORMANCE	0-62mph in 11.7 seconds / top speed 112mph
ECONOMY	55.4mpg
CO₂ EMISSIONS	118g/km

would be now, but Audi's masterplan to move forward at an unrelenting pace leaves no scope for looking backwards.

Which is why the A1 uses a different approach. A lightweight body and excellent drag coefficient result in best in class CO₂ emissions and fuel consumption that are reminiscent of the A2, but there's nothing contentious about the styling and the A1 is aimed at a different, younger urban market.

If ever there was a car for 'the now' it's the A1. The Audi brand shows no signs of waning in its appeal; the four rings have taken over at the top as the badge of choice, coming to symbolise the highest quality and most enviable design. Combined with the public appetite for efficient compact cars with character, the A1's prospects seem great indeed.

With that in mind, it is essential for Audi to maintain the high standards of build and design inside the A1. And the good news is that, behind the wheel, the A1 feels as premium as any of the manufacturer's larger models.

It is, quite simply, very Audi which is not an easy task to accomplish inside a compact cabin. High quality materials obviously help and specification is reassuringly premium. Inside an entry level SE equivalent model there's certainly no reason to feel hard done by. The cloth seats are top class, the fascia boasts the same designer air vents and pop-up screen as the Sport and S-line model, the driver can get to grips with the same chunky three-spoke steering wheel and stop-start is standard on all models.

Further up the trim levels, owners can expect the same multimedia entertainment system and Google Earth imaging sat-nav as in the mega-saloon A8, more leather and additional interior detailing, while a range of colourful trim options are available to add a bespoke feel across the range.

Of course, there's considerably less space than inside an A3 or A4, but the three-door A1 should prove a relatively competent load carrier. The rear seats fold flat and while there are only two of them, separated by a cup holder and trinket tray, they're considerably more useable than the rear seats in some rivals.

Naturally, the S-tronic twin clutch transmission is present in the line-up. It can replace a six-speed manual transmission with the 1.4-litre, 120bhp TFSI unit in S-Line or the firmer riding Sport trim levels. A 130bhp 1.6-litre TDI with five-speed manual is also available across the range, as is the 1.2-litre 85bhp TFSI unit with a five-speed manual transmission.

It's the small petrol engine that holds the biggest surprise, the efficient turbocharged unit offering an impressive degree of pep and responding well to being revved. The Sport suspension upgrade firms things up considerably in the corners, but in standard form the A1 chassis proves refined and assured on the road.

The A1 was always likely to be one of the most hotly anticipated new cars of 2010, but the manufacturer hasn't crumpled under the pressure. It may be the company's smallest car yet, but it's every inch an Audi.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

We offer free collection, on the same day if necessary, using our own recovery vehicles and issue a Certificate of Destruction from the Department of Vehicle Licensing Authority via our direct link to their website. Payment per vehicle negotiable.

Injured Osagie still hopeful of passage to India Games

MIDDLE-distance runner Andrew Osagie has not given up hope of gaining selection for the Commonwealth Games in India despite being ruled out by injuries for the last four months.

The 22-year-old from Northfields, Harlow, was first in the 800m at the McCain City Challenge in Sheffield in February in 1:53.18.

This was before he clocked 1:47.40 and 1:51.29 respectively in the heats and semi-final of the 800m at the IAAF World Indoor Championships in Doha, Qatar in March.

Harlow Athletic Club member Osagie, a highly gifted athlete who has been mentored by former gold medalist Dame Kelly Holmes, has since been dogged by a hip injury and then by a bone stress injury in his left foot.

He said: "I hurt my foot a week before the European trials at Birmingham [in June]. It was a knock-on effect [from the last injury]."

Osagie, who has just graduated with a 2:2 Sports Science degree from St Mary's College in Twickenham, knows he faces a race against time if he is to compete in India this October.

He has never competed at the Commonwealth Games as he was only 18 when the last one was held in Melbourne, Australia, four years ago.

"I hope to race in Sweden in an open meeting in 10 days' time. I need to get other races in and there is still time before the Commonwealth Games selection is made on August 17," he said.

"I need to race well enough against other English athletes. I need to be doing around one mins 47.5 secs. I did 1:47.1 last year."

Primary schools in '4x4' football challenge

PRIMARY schools in north-west Essex brought the curtain down on the first ever Harlow Central Venue League in June.

Nearly 100 boys and girls trained and '4x4' matches were held at four meetings at Fairways Sports & Social Club in Harlow.

The festival was run jointly by the Essex County FA's Club Development Officer Ian Bent, FA Tesco Skills Coach Andy Edmunds, Ridsen Wood Youth FC and the Stewards School Sports Partnership. Five of the Stewards 'family of schools' were involved at Parsloe Road – Kingsmoor Primary, Milwards Primary, Nazeing Primary, Peterswood Infant and St James' Church of England School.

4v4 is played on a field sized around 25 by 35 yards without a goalkeeper and participants are constantly involved in the game."

Club juniors show Eastern promise

A WEAKENED Harlow Athletic Club team finished last in an Eastern Young Athletes League meeting but could draw comfort from some top individual performances.

Athletics

He set two personal bests (PBs) in the U-13 boys 100m and 200m races.

Matthew coped well with the pressure in his first race as an A string athlete in the 100m and won with a PB of 13.5s.

He then went on to come second in the A 200m with a PB of 29.1s.

Joe Walker also did well. He set PBs of 14.7s in the B 100m (3rd) and threw 11.65m in the discus (5th), while his best performance came in the shot put where he came third with a PB of 7.52m (3rd).

In the U-15 boys category, Jack Reed was narrowly beaten to the line in the A 200m (2nd), despite running a fast 25.4s and was only 0.1s outside of his PB to run 12.5s in the A 100m (5th).

Jonathan Wilson came third in the B 200m in 26.7s (3rd) and ran 13.7s in the 100m B race (5th).

Sixteen-year-old Tom Baines cleared 1.40m in the A high jump (4th) and threw 7.52m in the A shot put for 5th.

Rosie Poole and Marleen Avontuur were the only two girls competing for the club.

Rosie continued her improving form with a leap of 3.33m in the long jump (4th), giving her a third PB in her third consecutive match.

Despite the heat, she also ran a PB of 2:48.6 in the 800m (3rd).

She was 5th in the A discus (8.74m).

Marleen came third in the U-15 girls discus (20.62m) and 6th in the A javelin.

Paxman on song as Harlow clinch third

A STRONG backs-to-the-wall performance from a weakened Harlow Athletic Club team ensured they came third out of four competing in the penultimate Southern League division three north match of the season.

Harlow had only six athletes for the event at Lea Valley Athletic Centre in Picketts Lock, North London, on Saturday.

The versatile Glen Paxman starred, clocking two season bests – in the 100m and 400m. He came second in both the 100m (11.7 seconds) and the 400m (54.4s).

He also achieved two personal bests (PBs) in the shot put (9.64m) and javelin (38.68m).

Paxman also gained a first spot in the long jump (5.93m) as well as third spots in the high jump (1.65m) and triple jump (11.78m).

Team captain Dave Bauer also achieved a season's best of 40.61m in the discus where he came second and gained a second place in the hammer with a huge throw of 35.45m.

Meanwhile, Steve Down chipped in with three third spots in the 800m (3 mins 0.00s), 110m hurdles (21.3s) and 400m hurdles (65.4s).

Bauer said: "I am really pleased we did not come last. It was a very good performance and I'm pleased Seamus O'Brien came along as a new member because we could then do the relays."

"Glen did a lot as always. We missed Carl, his brother, who was on holiday. Glen's a star. If we had another two like him we would win very match. I was pleased with what I did after two weeks of illness. Steve Down did well as well."

"We only dropped from sixth to seventh [out of 16 clubs] in the whole table. A lot of teams would be near the bottom, if they had the small numbers we have had."

He added: "We should have a much stronger team for our last match at Peterborough at the end of the month."

Jon's top of the Pecking order!

JON Peck secured first place for Harlow's Apex Trampoline Club at an event in Suffolk.

Jon sealed victory in the Grade G over 15 male category at the Ipswich Grading tournament.

In the Grade G U-15 male section, Apex's Sam Armstrong was third.

There were top three finishes for Mistral Tredgett (2nd, Grade F over 15 female) and Nathan Holmes (3rd, Grade F U-13 male).

Trampolining

Holly Down sealed 5th in the Grade G U-15 female section.

In the Grade E over 15 female category, Robyn Wilson was 4th, while in the Grade E U-13 female section Perri Merrick-Smith was 4th.

An Apex spokeswoman said: "Club squad coaches would like to applaud the performers on their mature approach to competing and their growing support and camaraderie for each other during competitions." The Harlow club trains at Mark Hall Sportcentre.

Marksman named in squad for Games

>>Cont'd from back

"I got to meet lots of people from other sports and see how they train. It was a really good insight."

"I knew that winning a medal in each event in Pune was possible, but getting three golds was amazing, I wasn't expecting that."

England finished third in the shooting medals table at the Melbourne Commonwealth Games four years ago, behind India and Australia, with six golds, eight silvers and five bronzes.

Huckle will compete in two events in Delhi; the men's air rifle section and the 3x40.

He will join England colleague Kenny Parr, from Croydon, in this section.

Blow for boss as left-back quits

KEVIN Warren's pre-season plans for the Hawks have received a blow after left-back Mark Duckett quit to join Blue Square North club Corby Town.

Warren had signed Duckett from Southern League premier division Brackley Town in Northamptonshire earlier in the summer and hoped his experience would strengthen their back four.

The Harlow Town boss said: "He has gone to Corby. I am disappointed in his decision. He has gone back on his word. He is a good player and it's a blow."

Warren has players that can cover this position in his squad but will be looking for a specialist left-back.

Meanwhile, Warren is running the rule over forward Che Stadhart who was at Aveley last term.

His non-League CV includes Blue Square South clubs Ebbsfleet United and Welling United, along with Ryman League Margate.

Warren is hoping that he could be the target man he has been looking for.

He said: "He has been training for the last couple of weeks and his fitness is getting up to scratch. We did speak to Aveley last season after he scored four or five goals against our reserves. I will not make a decision until I have seen him play."

Warren is also giving a trial to right-back Lee Gledhill, who played for Metropolitan Police last season.

"He has come highly recommended and he can play in midfield."

The Harlow boss is spoiled for choice with keepers.

James Hasell is his number one while James May was signed from Essex Senior League Takeley. Ashley Harris, who had a spell at Barrows Farm last term, has also been linked with a return to Harlow.

Keeper Rhys Madden, who was at Aveley last term, has also trained with the Hawks.

Warren said: "James May had a finger injury at work and will be back in the next month or so while Ashley Harris is recovering from a knee operation."

"Rhys has been working with our keeper coach Steve Wallduck. Whatever happens I will go with only two."

The trialists are set to get some action when Harlow open their pre-season programme at Sawbridgeworth Town this Saturday.

Meanwhile, Harlow have cancelled the friendlies against Grays Athletic on July 27 and St Margaretsbury on August 3.

Hawks club secretary John McClelland said: "We have been unable to contact Grays to confirm the game so we have decided not to pursue the fixture further and the pitch at Barrows Farm will not be ready in time for the St Margaretsbury game. We are trying to fill the spots."

Medals galore for super Penguins swimmers

BRILLIANT performances from Harlow Penguins secured medals galore at different meetings.

The club, which has now moved to its new base at the Leisurezone complex, competed in the Junior Speedo League, while younger swimmers took part in the Baintree & Bocking Gala.

The gala was an unusual meet in that there were heats and finals.

Anyone who came 1st-8th in their age group from the heats were then entered into a final and all finalists received medals for their position.

Penguins came away with 13 medals in total as follows:

50m butterfly – John Reynolds (age 15) 4th in 31.81 seconds.

50m breaststroke – Luke Guerrati (13) 5th in 45.46s.

Society marks milestone

Golf

A HARLOW Golf Society's 57th annual match helped mark Bishop's Stortford Golf Club's centenary celebrations as a special invitational contest was staged at the Dunmow Road club.

Queen Elizabeth II had just come to the throne when the Harlow Golfing Society was first formed, prior to a golf club actually existing in the new town!

Attended by 58 members and guests, Gus Noonan and his guest John Welch won the morning 9-hole greensomes.

Robbie Kerr and guest Les Clark won the afternoon 18-hole stableford competition and Ian Petch and Ian Foster won the prize for the best overall score.

Guests of the Society included the Bishop's Stortford Golf Club chairman, Kay Vartan, the club captain Ian Foster and lady captain Lynne Harris.

Captain of the Society, Rod King, presided.

The Harlow Golf Society also held a special centenary match against the Stortford club's Bishops section.

Though billed as a friendly engagement competitive instincts ran high and this event attracted a large turn out of 72 contestants.

Announcing the result King assured all that the result was a genuine draw with eight fourball match wins to both societies and two matches halved.

Internationals shine as club hosts Hardbat Series

ENGLAND internationals battled it out against their Israel and Hungary counterparts as plenty of top table tennis players descended on Old Harlow to compete in a different form of the game.

Thirty-two players battled it out for £440 prize money in the fifth event in Fred Dove's Hardbat Series.

The event at the Norman Booth Leisure Centre in Elderfield on Saturday saw another raft of top national players compete.

It was such a high standard that none of the winners from the previous four events even made it as far as the semi-final.

Star performers like England's Dove, Billy Pegg and Paul Worrall, plus Eli Baraty (Israel) Gergely Urban and Norbert Tofalvi (both from Hungary), never even reached the knock-out stages.

Twenty-four players were knocked out in the group stages and eight went on to contest the knockout stages.

Denis Neale, who has gained 200+ England caps, beat Wales international Nick Brown 18-21, 21-19, 21-8 in the quarter-finals, which also saw current over 40 England champion Chris Bartram beat his Kent county colleague Joe Kennedy 21-16, 17-21, 21-16.

In the last eight, previous Hardbat Series winner Darren Griffin lost to Nigeria international Sule Olaleye 21-16, 21-11, while Graham Sandley, another previous Hardbat Series winner, went down to surprise package Luke Carrington 21-14, 21-16.

Neale, who once represented Europe, triumphed in a superb last round battle with Bartram, saving two match points in the process before winning 14-21, 22-20, 21-13.

The other semi-final saw Olaleye overcome Carrington 21-19, 21-13.

Bartram and Carrington are pretty new to hardbat but played extraordinarily well.

The final pitted Olaleye against Neale. Neale had beaten Olaleye 21-20 and 21-11 in the group stage but the combination of seven matches and the hottest day of the year contributed to Olaleye gaining revenge 21-16, 21-13.

Neil Brierley, secretary of the BATTs club which hosted the event, said: "Olaleye began playing with a hardbat in Nigeria before playing in World Championships with a conventional bat. Neale is a legend in the game and was many people's tip to take the title.

"The fantastic thing about hardbats is that there is a real chance to compare eras. Skill and technique is everything whereas the lightning fast modern bat invariably favours the younger and quicker player."

In the band two final, Tony West (Suffolk) beat Kevin James (Essex) in two straight games. This was after the pair qualified from the 24 who failed to reach the knockout stages.

Ton in vain as Town lose

SCOTT Alderson's first century was not enough to pull off a win for Harlow Town at Buntingford.

The hosts battled first and scored 271-6 but in reply Harlow slipped to 43-3 when Alderson joined Patrick Yates.

The pair shared a stand of 145 with Yates making 67 before Alderson went on to make an excellent 116.

However, the total proved too much to overhaul as Town slipped to their third loss of the season.

Harlow Town skipper Vic Goddard said: "It's hard to keep going at six an over when you lose three early wickets.

"After 20 overs we were averaging three an over but increased it to around 8 after that.

"Ashley batted really well. His hundred has been a long time coming and it was chanceless. Patrick batted beautifully but found it hard to put his foot down [and score rapidly]."

Earlier, Town got off to a good start with the ball as Dan Calver claimed two early wickets leaving Buntingford on 34-2.

But, Town's attack began to wilt in the heat as they struggled to contain the Buntingford batsmen on a flat wicket.

John Clements's 85 for the hosts led the innings together, as did the late-order effort of Greg Garner (43 not out).

The home side's total was boosted by 24 wides and no-balls. By contrast Buntingford gave away only six wides.

Goddard added: "We lacked a bit of discipline in our bowling and the difference in the wides and no balls was a big factor in the result. It gave them extra balls from which they could score.

"I would have been confident if we had to chase 240 or 250."

Harlow Town are sixth in the table.

In division three, Ron Yates scored 60 and took two wickets for Harlow Town II (286-6) when they beat Chesterfords (168) by 118 runs.

John Simpson smashed 80 when Harlow Town IIIs (182-3) beat Thundridge 180 by 7 wickets in division six.

Other results: div three - Potter Street (113-3) bt Woodford Wells IV 9109 by 7 wickets.

Div 7 - Potter Street II (296) bt Little Munden (157) by 139 runs.

Hawks handed home draws in FA Cup and FA Trophy

HARLOW Town FC have been handed a plum home draw in the preliminary round of the FA Cup.

Kevin Warren's side will host Southern League division one midlands side Barton Rovers in the preliminary round on Saturday August 28.

"I will just take one game at a time. It's nice to have a home draw against Barton. They were tough opponents when we played them in the Southern League [now the Zamaretto League]. I will have to do some homework on them."

Harlow have also been drawn at home to Zamaretto League premier division club Bedford Town in the first qualifying round of the FA Trophy on Saturday October 16.

Warren said: "It's a tricky tie. They are a league above us but we are at home. I think the side we will have will give Bedford a run for their money."

The draws were made by the FA last Thursday.

England expects

Marksman named in squad for Commonwealth Games

RIFLE shooter James Huckle is beginning his preparations for what he hopes will be a gold-medal winning performance after being named in the England squad for the 2010 Commonwealth Games in Delhi in October.

Huckle, 19, from Old Harlow, was named on Tuesday in the 22-strong shooting team going to India.

He is currently gearing up for the 50th ISSF

World Championships in Munich, Germany.

These start on July 29 and former Mark Hall School pupil Huckle will compete in the Junior Men's 50m Three Positions Rifle and Junior Men's 10m Air Rifle sections.

His focus is on the World Champs for now but he cannot wait for Delhi and his debut at the Commonwealth Games.

He said: "Having been to the Commonwealth Games shooting venue, I'm very much looking forward to going back there in October."

Huckle, a member at the United Glass Rifle Club in London Road, Harlow, was one of the stars of the show for England at the Commonwealth Youth Games in Pune, India, two years ago.

The youngster returned home with a hat-trick of gold medals from the 50m rifle prone, 10m air rifle and the 50m rifle three-positions.

Huckle, pictured right, later collected three silvers and two bronzes at the Commonwealth Shooting Federation Championships, the test event for the Games in Delhi in February.

He said: "Competing at a multi-sports event was a completely different experience to a shooting event."

Stalemate leaves Harlow playing catch up

Harlow 296,
Buckhurst Hill 212-6

Match drawn

Shepherd Neame Essex League, division two

JASON McNally took the long-term view after his third-placed Harlow side were held to a home draw against second-placed Buckhurst Hill.

McNally played a big part as his 105-ball 135 ensured Harlow posted a big score of 296 when they batted first.

It virtually ensured Hill would not win.

Harlow took 10 points from Saturday's draw while Buckhurst got 8 which left Harlow on 147 points and Buckhurst on 154.

Two sides are set to be promoted and eight games are left.

"The main thing was they did not win and open up a gap between us which would have been a lot to make up," said McNally.

"We got two more points than them and batted them out of the game. We can make up the points over the remaining games."

After McNally had won the toss, two of Harlow's key batsmen, Nilash Modhwadia and Ahmed Khawaja, made 17 and 1 respectively as the hosts reached 56-2.

McNally came in and ensured Harlow set a challenging total with his first league century for Harlow. His knock included 13 fours and eight sixes.

He received good support from Rehman Ahmed (36), Lee Jessey (28) and Andrew McGarry (16) in partnerships of 38 and 86 for the third, sixth and seventh-wickets.

McNally said: "I needed to make a score as we could have been bowled out for 200 and they would have got that as they have a long batting line-up. The runs came quickly but I did take my time. Rehman played well and Lee got some confidence back. He batted well."

In Buckhurst's innings, McNally opened up with spinner Khawaja as well as swing bowler Luke Monger instead of two quicker bowlers.

The tactic was to try and contain Rohan Bhome who plays the quicker bowling very well.

However, Bhome and opening partner Gordon Whorlow put on 102 for the first wicket before Luke Heskett got Bhome caught by McGarry for 51.

Whorlow went on to make 58 but the Harlow total was not threatened with Raymond Parkinson (27) and Russell Beckett (26) the only other visiting batsmen to make more than 20 as they finished on 212-6.

Khawaja was Harlow's most successful bowler, taking 3-74. McNally added: "After we got their first wicket we bowled well but it was tough to bowl them out."
